KNOWLEDGE UPDATE

Paper: Make change happen

To serve low-income and emerging consumers effectively, insurance providers need to make significant changes to the way they do business. These changes can be daunting, especially given the challenging business case for low-cost policies. To be successful, the change process must be managed carefully and systematically. Our latest paper presents a process that can be used by insurers to initiate and manage the changes required to serve low-income households.

Briefing Note: Financial inclusion and health

Developing holistic solutions that address ill health can be a triple win for clients, society and financial service providers. There is considerable demand for such solutions, and keeping clients and their families healthy makes business sense. See our latest Briefing Note to learn more about the scope for financial service providers to develop holistic health solutions.

Emerging Insight: Vote for your favourite EI

NEWS FLASH

Reminder: webinar on the journey towards digital insurance

Got any plans for Thursday July 26? Join us for an online discussion on digital technology and insurtech solutions, and how they can be used to access emerging markets. For an insurance provider, a digital journey involves transforming processes and, more fundamentally, changing how the business operates. This webinar, organized with support from the Agence Française de Développement and FSDA, will feature the experiences of Equity Insurance Agency in Kenya, and Inclusivity Solutions, based in South Africa.

The promise and pitfalls of index insurance

What are the promises and pitfalls of index insurance? The AMA Innovation Lab organized an interesting webinar on assessing the quality of an index insurance product and its appropriateness in a particular context. The full presentation and recording are now available!
