Description:

This webinar looked at how governments can catalyse the development of agriculture insurance markets through a variety of interventions such as the provision, administration and management of subsidies, support for developing infrastructure for effective implementation of insurance programmes, investment in collection and sharing of data and customer education. It also looked at the government’s role in developing enabling regulations and using insurance as a part of their social protection and agriculture development agendas. Organized together with the WBG’s Global Index Insurance Facility, the USAID & Basis/I4-supported Global Action Network for agriculture insurance, it featured resource persons from USAID, the World Bank and the Government of Kenya.

The entire webinar can be rewatched on our YouTube channel [1]. You can access the slides of the webinar through SlideShare [2]. Some of the questions in the Q&A session of the webinar were left unanswered. The panellists have taken a look into these and you can access their responses here [3].
