

Evidence and experience-based learning

All our work is rooted in evidence and lessons learnt on-the-ground. We design a structured learning approach for each of our projects, allowing us to mine them for insights and lessons.

With over 60 completed projects and dozens more currently active, we have an unmatched pool of insights. We draw on these insights not only to inform our projects, but also to share thorough, practical and actionable information with the industry, through trainings, publications, webinars and so on.

In addition, we create opportunities for practitioners to learn directly from the experiences of one another. For example, the Global Action Network <sup>[1]</sup> provides a platform for experts and practitioners to exchange evidence and learning on agriculture insurance. This has led to concrete advances in the sector, such as tools to assess the client value of index insurance products and guidelines on consumer education for index insurance ? all based on the accumulated insights and experiences of the group.
